Key SAT Writing Grammar Rules

To excel in the SAT Writing and Language section, it is vital to familiarize yourself with the following grammar rules:

1. Subject-Verb Agreement

Subject-verb agreement is fundamental in constructing clear sentences. The subject and verb must agree in number—singular or plural. Here are some guidelines:

- Singular subjects take singular verbs. Example: "The cat runs quickly."
- Plural subjects take plural verbs. Example: "The cats run quickly."
- When using indefinite pronouns (e.g., anyone, everyone, someone), they are typically treated as singular. Example: "Everyone is invited."

2. Pronoun Agreement

Pronouns must agree in number and gender with the nouns they replace. This includes:

- Singular nouns require singular pronouns. Example: "The teacher lost her book."
- Plural nouns require plural pronouns. Example: "The teachers lost their books."
- Be cautious with collective nouns (e.g., team, committee) as they may be singular or plural. Example: "The team is winning" (singular) vs. "The team are arguing among themselves" (plural).

3. Verb Tenses

Maintaining consistent verb tenses throughout a passage is essential for clarity. Here are some tips:

- Choose a tense and stick with it unless there is a time shift. Example: "She walked to the store and bought groceries."
- Use present tense for general statements. Example: "Water boils at 100 degrees Celsius."
- Use past tense for completed actions. Example: "He finished his homework."

4. Sentence Fragments

A sentence fragment is an incomplete sentence that lacks a subject or a verb. To avoid fragments, ensure that each sentence contains at least one independent clause.

Examples of fragments:

- "Because I was tired." (Fragment)
- "I went to bed early because I was tired." (Complete sentence)

5. Run-on Sentences

Run-on sentences occur when two independent clauses are incorrectly combined without appropriate punctuation. To fix run-ons, consider these options:

- Use a period to separate the clauses. Example: "I love reading. It is my favorite pastime."
- Use a comma and a coordinating conjunction (for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so). Example: "I love reading, and it is my favorite pastime."
- Use a semicolon to connect related clauses. Example: "I love reading; it is my favorite pastime."

6. Misplaced and Dangling Modifiers

Modifiers should be placed next to the word they describe to avoid confusion.

Examples of misplaced modifiers:

- "I saw the dog running down the street with a broken leg." (Unclear if the dog or the leg is broken)
- "I saw the dog with a broken leg running down the street." (Clarifies that the dog has the broken leg)

A dangling modifier occurs when the word being modified is not explicitly stated in the sentence.

Example: "After reading the book, the movie was disappointing." (It should be "After reading the book, I found the movie disappointing.")

7. Punctuation Rules

Correct punctuation is essential for clear writing. Here are some common rules:

- Use commas to separate items in a list. Example: "I bought apples, oranges, and bananas."
- Use commas before conjunctions in compound sentences. Example: "I wanted to go for a walk, but it started raining."
- Use semicolons to link closely related independent clauses. Example: "I have a big test tomorrow; I can't go out tonight."
- Use apostrophes to indicate possession. Example: "The dog's leash is broken."
