History of Society Hill

Origins and Development

Society Hill has its roots in the mid-20th century, emerging as part of the larger Cherry Hill Township development. Originally farmland, the area began to transform in the 1960s as urban sprawl reached southern New Jersey. The neighborhood was carefully planned to provide a mix of residential, commercial, and recreational spaces, which facilitated a sense of community among its residents.

- 1960s-1970s: The initial development phase, characterized by single-family homes and townhouses.
- 1980s-1990s: Continued expansion and the introduction of amenities like shopping centers and schools.
- 2000s-Present: Ongoing improvements in infrastructure and community services, enhancing the quality of life.

Architectural Features

One of the defining characteristics of Society Hill is its architectural diversity. The neighborhood features a variety of home styles that contribute to its unique charm:

- Colonial-style homes: These classic designs often feature brick facades and large front porches.
- Contemporary townhouses: Many of these homes offer modern amenities and open floor plans.
- Split-level houses: Popular in the mid-20th century, these homes are still prevalent in the area.

The thoughtful design and appealing aesthetics of these homes foster a strong sense of identity within the community.
