This guide aims to help you understand the intricacies of building a Druid in Solasta, covering aspects such as race selection, ability scores, subclass choices, spells, and equipment.

Understanding the Druid Class

The Druid is a spellcasting class that draws its power from nature. In Solasta, Druids can shapeshift into animals, cast powerful spells, and harness the elements to aid their allies and hinder their enemies. This flexibility makes the Druid one of the most versatile classes in the game.

Key features of the Druid class include:

- Spellcasting: Druids have access to a wide array of spells that can heal, deal damage, or control the battlefield.
- Wild Shape: At higher levels, Druids can transform into various animals, gaining their abilities and enhancing their combat prowess.
- Circle of Life: Druids can choose a subclass at level 2, which grants them additional features and spells that shape their playstyle.

Choosing the Right Race

Selecting the right race can significantly impact your Druid's effectiveness. Here are some of the best races for a Druid build in Solasta:

Wood Elf

- Ability Score Increases: +2 Dexterity, +1 Wisdom
- Features: Increased movement speed, proficiency in stealth, and advantage on saving throws against being charmed.

The Wood Elf's bonuses to Dexterity and Wisdom make them an excellent choice for a Druid focused on ranged spellcasting or finesse-based melee combat.

Human

- Ability Score Increases: +1 to all ability scores
- Features: Versatile and adaptable, humans are a solid choice for any class.

Humans are great for those who want to create a balanced character without focusing on a specific aspect of the Druid class.

Firbolg

- Ability Score Increases: +2 Wisdom, +1 Strength
- Features: Increased size, speak with beasts, and magic detection.

Firbolgs can be exceptionally resilient Druids, capitalizing on their natural wisdom for spellcasting and their strength for melee combat.

Ability Scores for Druids

Druids rely heavily on Wisdom for their spellcasting abilities, but other attributes also play a crucial role. Here's how to prioritize your ability scores:

1. Wisdom (Primary): Increases spellcasting ability, spell save DC, and effectiveness of healing spells.
2. Constitution (Secondary): Boosts hit points and improves concentration checks for maintaining spells.
3. Dexterity or Strength (Tertiary): Choose Dexterity for ranged combat and finesse weapons or Strength for heavy melee builds.
4. Intelligence, Charisma, and Others: These can be secondary considerations based on your character concept, but they are generally less critical for a Druid.

A suggested starting array for a Druid might look like this (using the point buy system):

- Wisdom: 16
- Constitution: 14
- Dexterity: 14
- Strength: 10
- Intelligence: 10
- Charisma: 8

Subclass Choices

At level 2, Druids can choose a subclass that reflects their connection to nature and influences their abilities. Here are the primary subclasses available in Solasta:

Circle of the Moon

- Focus: Enhances Wild Shape capabilities.
- Features: Allows the Druid to transform into more powerful beasts and use Wild Shape as a bonus action.

This is the ideal choice for players who want to focus on melee combat and use their animal forms frequently.

Circle of the Land

- Focus: Broadens spellcasting options and grants additional spells based on chosen terrain type.
- Features: Regains spell slots during short rests and gains access to additional spells from the chosen terrain type.

This subclass is perfect for players looking to maximize their spellcasting versatility and support roles.
