Players begin by selecting their ships and upgrades, forming a squadron. After determining the scenario, players set up their ships on the game mat, with specific rules governing the distance between opposing forces.

2. Movement Phase

During the movement phase, players simultaneously reveal their chosen maneuvers from their dials. Ships move in the order of their pilot skill, with higher skill pilots moving first. Movement is determined by templates that dictate the exact path a ship can take.

3. Action Phase

After moving, players can perform actions such as:

- Focus: Increase the accuracy of attacks.
- Evade: Increase defense during the opponent's attack.
- Boost: Gain an extra movement.
- Barrel Roll: Change the ship's position slightly.

These actions are vital for positioning and enhancing the effectiveness of a player's strategy.

4. Combat Phase

Combat is resolved in a structured order. Players roll dice to determine hits and evade results, with the outcome influenced by the ship's weapons, pilot skills, and any upgrades. The combat system is straightforward yet allows for depth and strategy.
