Choosing and Training Your Starter Pokémon

In Pokémon Yellow, Pikachu is the starter Pokémon, setting it apart from other versions where players choose between Bulbasaur, Charmander, or Squirtle. Pikachu's unique role and behavior greatly influence early gameplay strategies. Trainers must focus on effectively training Pikachu to ensure it remains competitive throughout the journey. Pikachu's Strengths and Weaknesses

Pikachu excels in speed and special attack but has relatively low defense and HP. Its Electric-type moves are super effective against Water- and Flying-type Pokémon but are vulnerable to Ground-type attacks, which Pikachu cannot counter directly. Trainers should emphasize leveling Pikachu evenly and teaching it strategic moves like Thunderbolt to maximize damage output.

Training Tips for Pikachu

Early in the game, focus on battling wild Pokémon and trainers to raise Pikachu's experience points quickly. Utilizing the Vs. Seeker to rematch

Frequently Asked Questions

What is the best starter Pokémon to choose in Pokémon Yellow?

In Pokémon Yellow, you start with Pikachu by default, unlike other versions where you choose between Bulbasaur, Charmander, or Squirtle. You cannot change your starter, but you can catch all three starters later in the game.

How do I keep Pikachu happy and prevent it from disobeying me?

To keep Pikachu happy, avoid letting it faint in battle, feed it vitamins like Protein and Calcium, and make sure to use it frequently in battles. Pikachu's mood is indicated by its facial expressions; a happy Pikachu will perform better and obey your commands.

Where can I find the best Pokémon for building a strong team early in Pokémon Yellow?

Some strong early-game Pokémon include Pidgeotto (Route 2), Butterfree (evolve Caterpie from Viridian Forest), and Nidoran♂/Nidoran♀ (Route 22 and Route 3). You can also catch Pikachu in Viridian Forest to have additional Electric-type options.

What is an effective strategy for defeating the first Gym Leader, Brock, in Pokémon Yellow?

Brock uses Rock-type Pokémon, which are weak to Water and Grass moves. Since you start with Pikachu, catch a Bulbasaur or Oddish early for Grass-type moves, or catch a Squirtle for Water-type moves to exploit Brock's weaknesses.

How do I catch all three starter Pokémon (Bulbasaur, Charmander, and Squirtle) in Pokémon Yellow?

After defeating the first Gym in Pewter City, head to the house north of the Pokémon Center where your rival's friends are. You can receive Bulbasaur, Charmander, and Squirtle as gifts from them, allowing you to have all three starters on your team.

What are some tips for leveling up Pikachu quickly in Pokémon Yellow?

To level up Pikachu quickly, battle wild Pokémon in areas with higher-level encounters like Route 10 or the Power Plant. Use Exp. Share to distribute experience to other weaker Pokémon while focusing on Pikachu in battles.

How can I effectively use the TM and HM moves in Pokémon Yellow?

In Pokémon Yellow, TMs can only be used once, so use them wisely on Pokémon with high Special or Attack stats for moves like Thunderbolt or Psychic. HMs such as Surf and Fly are essential for progression and should be taught to Pokémon that can learn them and have good stats.

What is the best way to defeat Team Rocket in Pokémon Yellow?

Use Pokémon with strong type advantages against Team Rocket's Pokémon, such as Psychic-types against their Poison-types and Electric-types against their Water-types. Also, keep your team healed and stock up on status-healing items to counter their strategies.

Where can I find rare Pokémon like Mewtwo and how do I catch it?

Mewtwo is located in the Cerulean Cave (also known as the Unknown Dungeon) accessible after defeating the Elite Four. It is at a high level (70), so bring strong Pokémon, plenty of Ultra Balls or a Master Ball, and use status moves like Sleep or Paralysis to increase catch rates.

What are the key differences in strategy when playing Pokémon Yellow compared to Red or Blue?

In Pokémon Yellow, Pikachu follows you and has unique AI behavior, requiring more care to keep it happy. You can also obtain all three starters, unlike Red/Blue where you choose only one.
