What is a Knock Knock Joke?

Knock knock jokes are a type of call and response joke that often features a pun or play on words. The typical format involves one person initiating the joke with "Knock, knock," prompting the response "Who's there?" The joke continues with a name or phrase that sets up a pun or humorous twist when the final line is delivered.

The Structure of Knock Knock Jokes

Understanding the structure of knock knock jokes can help you create your own or enhance your comedic timing. Here's a breakdown of the format:

1. Initiation: One person starts by saying "Knock, knock."
2. Response: The other person replies, "Who's there?"
3. Setup: The first person then says a name or phrase.
4. Punchline: The second person repeats the name or phrase followed by a clever twist or pun.

This simple yet effective format allows for a wide range of creativity and humor, making it a favorite among both children and adults.

The History of Knock Knock Jokes

Knock knock jokes have a rich history that dates back to the early 20th century. While it's difficult to pinpoint the exact origin, the jokes became widely popular in the 1930s. They were featured in various publications and quickly became a part of American humor culture.
