Historical Context of Organized Crime in Chicago

The roots of organized crime in Chicago can be traced back to the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The influx of immigrants, particularly from Italy, created a fertile ground for the rise of crime syndicates. The Chicago Outfit, originally led by figures such as Johnny Torrio and later Al Capone, capitalized on the prohibition era, which provided them with lucrative opportunities in illegal liquor production and distribution.

The Prohibition Era's Influence

As the Chicago Outfit expanded its operations, the need for enforcers became paramount.
