Overview of The Kite Runner

The Kite Runner is a bestselling novel written by Afghan-American author Khaled Hosseini, first published in 2003. The narrative follows the life of Amir, a boy from Kabul, and his complicated relationship with Hassan, the son of his father's servant. Set against the backdrop of political upheaval in Afghanistan, the story spans decades, depicting the transformation of the country as well as Amir's journey toward redemption. The novel has been praised for its vivid storytelling, emotional depth, and its exploration of themes such as guilt, loyalty, and the immigrant experience.

Plot Summary

The novel opens in Kabul in the 1970s, where Amir and Hassan share a close friendship despite their social differences. After a traumatic event involving Hassan, Amir's guilt leads him to betray his friend, a decision that haunts him into adulthood. The Soviet invasion of Afghanistan forces Amir and his father to flee to the United States, where Amir grows into a writer. Years later, Amir returns to a Taliban-controlled Afghanistan to confront his past and seek forgiveness, illustrating a powerful tale of personal and national redemption.
