

three circles gospel diagram

Three Circles Gospel Diagram is a visual tool used in evangelism and discipleship to explain the message of the Gospel in a simple and relatable way. This diagram effectively communicates the fundamental concepts of sin, salvation, and the Kingdom of God. It serves not only as an educational resource but also as a conversation starter, making it an essential tool for Christians who wish to share their faith with others. In this article, we will explore the components of the Three Circles Gospel Diagram, its biblical foundation, its practical application, and the impact it has on both believers and non-believers.

Understanding the Three Circles Gospel Diagram

The Three Circles Gospel Diagram consists of three distinct circles, each representing a critical aspect of the Christian faith. The circles are typically labeled as follows:

1. God's Design
2. Brokenness
3. The Gospel

These circles work in conjunction to illustrate the narrative of human existence from a Christian perspective. The simplicity of the diagram allows individuals to grasp complex theological concepts in a visually engaging manner.

Circle One: God's Design

The first circle, representing God's Design, illustrates the original intention of God for creation. This circle emphasizes:

- Relationship with God: God created humanity for a personal relationship with Him, characterized by love, purpose, and fulfillment.
- Order and Purpose: In the beginning, God designed the world to function according to His will, where everything existed in harmony.
- Goodness of Creation: Everything God created was declared "good," reflecting His nature and intent.

This foundational understanding is critical as it sets the stage for recognizing the problem of brokenness that humanity faces.

Circle Two: Brokenness

The second circle, Brokenness, addresses the reality of sin and its effects on humanity and creation. Key points include:

- Sin Entered the World: The narrative of the Fall in Genesis explains how sin disrupted God's original design, leading to separation from God.
- Consequences of Sin: Brokenness manifests in various forms, including broken relationships, addiction, anxiety, and societal issues. It highlights the universal struggle of humanity against sin.
- Desire for Restoration: Despite the brokenness, there is a deep-seated yearning within every person for healing and restoration, pointing towards a need for something beyond themselves.

This circle effectively captures the human condition, establishing a need for the solution offered in the next circle.

Circle Three: The Gospel

The final circle represents the Gospel, which is the good news of Jesus Christ. The major elements of this circle are:

- Jesus' Life and Sacrifice: Jesus came to restore the broken relationship between God and humanity through His life, death, and resurrection.
- Repentance and Faith: The Gospel calls individuals to turn away from sin (repentance) and place their faith in Jesus for salvation.
- New Life and Kingdom: Embracing the Gospel leads to new life in Christ and participation in God's Kingdom, which is characterized by hope, purpose, and eternal life.

This circle emphasizes the transformative power of the Gospel, encouraging individuals to take action in response to the message.

The Biblical Foundation of the Three Circles Gospel Diagram

The Three Circles Gospel Diagram is rooted in Scripture, drawing from various passages that illustrate the themes of God's design, human brokenness, and the redemption found in Christ.

God's Design

- Genesis 1:26-27: This passage highlights the creation of humanity in God's image, emphasizing the inherent value and purpose of every individual.

- Jeremiah 29:11: Here, God declares His plans for His people, plans to prosper them and give them hope and a future.

Brokenness

- Romans 3:23: This verse states that "all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God," encapsulating the universal nature of sin.
- Isaiah 53:6: This scripture illustrates that we have all gone astray, each turning to our own way, highlighting the need for redemption.

The Gospel

- John 3:16: The essence of the Gospel is captured in this verse, which states that God loves the world and gave His only Son for our salvation.
- 2 Corinthians 5:17: This passage explains that in Christ, we are made new creations, emphasizing the transformational aspect of the Gospel.
