The Four Color Types

Each color in the True Colors framework corresponds to specific personality traits:

- Blue: Often seen as empathetic, compassionate, and nurturing. Blues value relationships and seek harmony in their interactions with others.
- Green: Characterized by analytical thinking, problem-solving skills, and a strong desire for knowledge. Greens often prioritize logic and objectivity.
- Gold: Known for their organization, reliability, and responsibility. Golds thrive in structured environments and value tradition and dependability.
- Orange: Typically adventurous, spontaneous, and enthusiastic. Oranges enjoy taking risks and often seek new experiences and excitement.

Understanding these color types can enhance communication, improve teamwork, and foster personal growth by enabling individuals to appreciate diverse perspectives.
