What Makes Candy Corn Non-Vegan?

Before diving into the world of vegan candy corn, it's essential to understand why traditional candy corn is often not suitable for a vegan lifestyle. The typical ingredients in conventional candy corn include:

- Sugar: Often processed with bone char, making it non-vegan.
- Gelatin: Derived from animal collagen, used to give candy its chewy texture.
- Artificial Colors: Some colorings can be made from insects or other animal products.

These ingredients can vary by brand, but they often make traditional candy corn unsuitable for those adhering to a vegan diet.
