Billy Graham's Theological Foundations

Billy Graham's theology was rooted in evangelical Christianity, emphasizing the authority of the Bible, the necessity of personal salvation through faith in Jesus Christ, and the importance of evangelism. He adhered to core evangelical doctrines such as the virgin birth, the deity of Christ, His substitutionary atonement, resurrection, and the need for repentance. Graham's preaching style was straightforward, focusing on the message of salvation and the grace of God.

Core Beliefs and Doctrinal Statements

Throughout his ministry, Billy Graham consistently affirmed key biblical doctrines that aligned with historic evangelicalism. His statements of faith included:

- The Bible as the inspired and infallible word of God
- The Trinity—the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit
- The necessity of being “born again” for salvation

- The literal resurrection of Jesus Christ
- The reality of heaven and hell

These beliefs formed the foundation of his evangelistic message, which was widely accepted among mainstream evangelical churches.

Approach to Evangelism

Graham's evangelistic approach was inclusive yet uncompromising on the gospel message. He emphasized the need for a personal decision to accept Christ and often invited people to make this commitment during his crusades. His methods were designed to reach large audiences and cross denominational lines, which sometimes led to criticism from more conservative or fundamentalist groups.

Criteria for Identifying a False Teacher

To evaluate whether Billy Graham was a false teacher, it is essential to understand what constitutes false teaching in a biblical and theological context. False teachers are generally identified by their deviation from essential Christian doctrines, the promotion of heresy, or leading people away from the truth of the gospel.

Biblical Definitions and Warnings

The New Testament contains several passages warning against false teachers, such as 2 Peter 2, Jude, and the letters of Paul. Common characteristics of false teachers include:

- Distorting the gospel message (Galatians 1:6-9)
- Promoting works-based salvation or denying Christ's deity
- Leading believers into immoral or unbiblical practices
- Exalting themselves above Scripture or church authority

These criteria help assess any teacher's faithfulness to biblical truth.
