These workshops can be held in various formats, from in-person meetings to online sessions, and can cater to different genres such as fiction, poetry, nonfiction, and more.

Types of Writing Workshops

1. Generative Workshops: These sessions focus on creating new work rather than critiquing existing pieces. Participants engage in writing exercises designed to stimulate creativity and generate fresh ideas.

3. Themed Workshops: These are centered around specific genres or topics, such as memoir writing, screenwriting, or poetry. Themed workshops allow participants to dive deep into a particular area of interest.
4. Online Workshops: With the rise of digital communication, many workshops are now conducted online, allowing for greater accessibility and a broader range of participants.
