1. Defining Talents and Abilities

- Talents: Natural aptitudes or skills that you possess. These can include artistic abilities, analytical thinking, or interpersonal skills. Talents often come easily to you and may not require extensive training.
- Abilities: Skills that you have developed through education, training, and experience. Abilities can encompass a wide range of competencies, from technical skills like programming to soft skills like communication and leadership.

2. Self-Assessment Techniques

To better understand your talents and abilities, consider the following self-assessment techniques:

- Journaling: Maintain a journal where you reflect on your daily activities and accomplishments. Over time, patterns will emerge that reveal your strongest skills.
